COST MOTOR-CYCLER $10 FOR BROADWAY SPEEDING.

Benswanger Led Policeman Merry Chase, Until He Swerved to Escape Collision With Woman.

Arthur Benswanger, a Jeweller liv third street and Broadway, provided parade along Broadway when he and tor cycle squad had a two-mile race, in which the most interesting features were a number of obstacles like pedestrians and taxleabs,

In the Harlem Police Court to-day before Magistrate Murphy, Moore testifled that he was stationed at the corner of One Hundred and Twenty-sec street and Broadway, at about quarter to five, on the lookout for overspeeding, when he saw Benswanger going down Broadway on a motorcycle at the rate of thirty miles an hour. He gave chase and at One Hundred and Eighteenth street Benswanger, seeing that he was followed, quickened his pace, as the policeman says, to forty-seven miles an hour.

Moore said that he gained steadily until they reached One Hundred and Eleventh street. There a taxicab drove in between thm in slowing up to avoid a collision and he lost all the ground he had gained, and the race practically the same frightful speed until their reached Eighty-third street. At that point Henswanger swerved and took the corner at full speed, almost colliding with a woman who was crossing the street. He was caught at the corner of highly-faird street and Amsterdam

Benswanger admitted speeding and
